Example:
Derek looked at his watch. He was getting hungrier and hungrier as each second ticked by.
"You know, I could have just eaten a plain ol' cheese sandwich," he told Marco. Again.
It had been almost 45 minutes and Marco was still assembling "the perfect sandwich." He was cutting and calculating each item that went in between the bread. It was kind of annoying.
But it's not like there was anything else to do since they got themselves lost in the forest and were waiting for help.
